CAPITALIZE ON CURRENCY

Now is the Perfect Time to Invest in a Classic Corvette

NAPOLEON, Ohio – Classic car enthusiasts from around the globe are taking advantage of the exchange rates and spending their money on U.S. good and services. At ProTeam Classic Corvette Collection and Sales, the world's largest inventory of first- through fifth-generation Corvettes located in the United States, there is increased interest in the company's inventory from car buyers in countries like Austria, France, Spain, The Netherlands and more.

“Because of the weakened U.S. dollar, now is a very opportune time for car collectors around the world to buy a classic Corvette,” says Terry Michaelis, president of ProTeam Classic Corvette Collection and Sales. “Recent reports have shown the Euro topping the $1.50 mark for the first time since being introduced in 1999! From car lovers looking for the classic Corvette of their dreams to investors hoping to buy more for less, smart international buyers are using the currency situation to their advantage.”

Consider this: The U.S. dollar fell to .65 Euro in early March, so a classic Corvette worth $100,000 U.S. dollars would actually cost about 65,430 Euro. And while no one is certain how long the current exchange rates will last, Michaelis notes that the window of opportunity is wide open for international customers to save money.

With more than 36 years of experience buying, selling and restoring classic Corvettes, Michaelis has become an expert on the marquee. ProTeam Corvette showcases 200 high-quality, award-winning classic Corvettes – totaling nearly $20 million in inventory – in its two indoor showrooms.

And if you're interested, you don't even have to travel to the states: the dedicated ProTeam staff are experts at assisting customers with finding the perfect Corvette. Plus, excellent customer service, accurate vehicle descriptions and a risk-free Money Back Guarantee gives car collectors the confidence they are buying the vehicle of the set out to find.

“For more than 10 years, we have offered customers a Money Back Guarantee that allows them to inspect, drive and approve a recently purchased classic Corvette during the first 48 hours of ownership,” said Michaelis. “If a customer should wish to cancel the purchase for any reason, we will take back the Corvette and refund the purchase price. No matter where our customers live, we think they deserve our help in finding the perfect Corvette. With our expert sales staff and risk-free Money Back Guarantee, they can buy the car without taking the time or the expense traveling to our showrooms.”

The company's Money Back Guarantee is contractual on ProTeam purchase agreements; the only thing the buyer would be responsible for is the transportation costs.

Customers can expect quality cars from ProTeam Corvette, as Michaelis personally inspects important vehicle items, such as VIN tags and attachments; a title matching the VIN tag; an original body/trim tag; the Corvette's body and frame; engine stamp, casting numbers and dates; and documentation. All of this helps guarantee that customers are purchasing from the best collection of classic Corvettes in the world.
